The clinic goes on a detox

A natural detoxification program can be one of the most effective ways to rapidly improve the state of your health, as it will help clear toxins out of your body and leave you feeling healthy and energetic. However, detoxification is serious business and your safety and comfort during the process is important. Therefore, the best detox is a program done under the guidance and support of a qualified Naturopath. Also because we know the fantastic benefits of detoxification the entire clinic is doing a 2 week detoxification between the months of September and November. So feel free to ask any of us how we are going.

Reiki Level 1 Course

Reiki's philosophy is that when 'life force energy' is low, a person is more likely to be unwell or stressed. Reiki enables individuals to resolve this imbalance and aid the life force energy to increase and return to its natural high, assisting the person to feel more capable of being happy and feeling well. Dagmar Guntermann our fantastic hypnotherapist and Reiki Master will be facilitating this course.

The next Reiki course is to be held Saturday the 10th of October from 9:30am till 5:00pm. The course costs $197 for the day so don't miss out, Register NOW as places are limited.

Natural Hay Fever Relief

Spring is in the air and whilst most of us are rejoicing and basking in the sunshine, warmer weather and enjoying all the gorgeous blooms, there are some of us that dread spring with the winds and pollens in the air. Most of those people are reaching for any pharmaceutical medication which might give them some relief from the horrible symptoms associated with hay fever such as sneezing, headaches, runny nose, red irritated and itchy eyes.

Well guess what...you most likely have some really effective natural remedies hiding in your pantry cupboard! Foods such as garlic, ginger, onion, turmeric and horseradish are potent anti-inflammatory, all of which can reduce the inflammation associated with hay fever. Simply add to your cooking as often as possible, or

Blend 1 clove of garlic, a 50cent size of ginger with 1/2 an onion and tsp of Turmeric and 1/2 a horseradish and cover with boiling water and a tsp of honey and drink twice daily, doesn't taste the greatest but is an excellent side effect free alternative to pharmaceutical medication, and it wont make you drowsy!

Immune support is also important in reducing hay fever. Check your mineral status, especially zinc and ensure your diet includes high vitamin C foods. These are important for an healthy optimally functioning immune system.

Nettle tea is a great herb to help relieve symptoms. Netti pots filled with warm water and sea salt, are also fantastic at clearing the sinuses and relieving symptoms.

Supporting your liver as the primary detoxifying organ is also important, a sluggish liver can perpetuate symptoms. Liver teas such as dandelion root, are excellent in aiding the liver and helping it work effectively.

If you are experience chronic hay fever and are finding that you are unable to obtain relief, make an appointment with one of our naturopaths who will tailor a programme specifically to your needs and help to either alleviate or eliminate your hay fever blues.

Recipe of the Month

Ricotta Pancakes

This is a great recipe for breakfast or a lovely afternoon snack—anytime of the day in fact. You can add water to this mix if you would like it make large pancakes or add more flour if you'd like to make them into picklets.

3 eggs

1 cup whole meal spelt, rye or rice flour

2 tsp baking powder

1/4 tsp sea salt

1 cup low fat ricotta

Separate eggs, whip egg whites until fluffy. Beat egg yolks, flour, salt and ricotta together in a medium bowl. Fold in egg whites gently and mix well. Fry tablespoons of mix in a little light olive oil until lightly browned on each side. Serve with fresh fruit and a drizzle of maple syrup and honey.

Arthritis and Natural Treatments

Did you know approximately 85 percent of people aged 70-plus, and many others in younger age groups, suffer from some type of arthritic condition?

Arthritis may be a very common affliction, but that doesn't make it any less painful. If you are looking for natural arthritis treatments, you have come to the right place. Vitalchi's natural health practitioners offer a range of arthritis treatments that not only address the pain, but investigate and treat the cause of your symptoms as well. Our aim is to provide effective and long lasting relief from your arthritis pain.

Types of arthritis

There are two types of arthritis: Rheumatoid Arthritis and Osteoarthritis. While both cause joint pain, stiffness and reduced range of motion, they affect the body in different ways.

Rheumatoid Arthritis

Rheumatoid arthritis is an autoimmune condition characterised by inflammation and destruction of the joints in several areas of the body. Rheumatoid arthritis most commonly affects joints in the hands, wrists, knees and neck. With rheumatoid arthritis, the joints on each side of the body will be affected symmetrically i.e. both the left and right hands, wrists and/or knees will be affected at the same time.

Symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis

Hot, swollen, puffy-looking joints

Reduced movement in affected joints

Pain in affected joints (especially after periods of rest e.g. on waking from sleep)

Possible joint deformities

Osteoarthritis

Osteoarthritis causes chronic degeneration of the joints by wearing away the cartilage and bone, and also by forming small bony growths called spurs in the joint space. The destruction of the cartilage means when joints move, bone rubs against bone, and becomes increasingly painful. As the spurs grow they limit the space available for the bones to move in the joint, restricting movement and causing more pain and irritation.

Symptoms of osteoarthritis

Painful joints

Joint stiffness, either after use or after periods of rest.

Reduced range of movement

Crepitus (creaking or cracking of the joints)

Spasm or contracture in muscles surrounding affected joints

Natural treatment options for arthritis

Fortunately, there are a number of effective natural treatments for arthritis. Remedial massage, naturopathy and Biomesotherapy are all offered by Vitalchi's experienced practitioners. Each treatment option has its particular approach and benefits. You may find a combination of treatments to be most effective.

To find out any more about arthritis treatments, please contact Vitalchi and we will be happy to talk you through the options.
